

---

Booking.com - Final notice – your booking.com partner account will be disabled unless you act now

---

From Booking.com <noreply@booking.com>
Date Wed 29-Oct-25 14:33
To pracas@hotmail.com <pracas@hotmail.com>

For security precautions, make sure your URL reads
<https://account.booking.com> when you sign in.

---

Final notice – your booking.com partner account will be disabled unless you act now

Dear Partner,

We're writing to notify you that your Booking.com partner account with the log-in name pracas@hotmail.com will be disabled in 1 month due to inactivity. We disable inactive accounts after 2 years to ensure their security.

If you still need the Extranet user account associated with this email, you can reactivate it by requesting a password reset.

To learn more about the online security measures we have in place as well as what you can do to further safeguard your own account, take a look at this info on the Partner Hub.

If you need further support, you can call us here.

Kind regards,
The Booking.com Team

These emails are automated, so please do not reply.

This email was sent by Booking.com, Oosterdokskade 163, 1011 DL
Amsterdam, Netherlands